100 Fortresses Bomb Italy in Terrific Raid

Leave Naples Burning after Unusually Heavy Bombing

Americans Turn Back German Counter-Attack in Tunisia

By DANIEL DE LUCE
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, April 5 (AP)—Nearly 100 American Flying Fortresses loosed 200 tons of bombs on the southern Italian port of Naples, Sunday setting fires whose billowing smoke blacked out the combustion of nearby Vesuvius and leaving the harbor littered with twenty-four crippled vessels and the main airport in a rubble of wrecked planes.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's communique today told of this greatest destruction yet heaped on Naples, the Tunisian supply key. The assault overshadowed all the land fighting in Tunisia where the second American army corps of Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., won a number of commanding hills near the Gabes-Gafsa road and pressed on to the east for an eventual junction with the strengthening British Eighth army.

The Americans, twelve miles or more southeast of El Guettar, fought on against strong German opposition and turned back a counter-attack in which elite German troops tried to recapture the lost hills. Patton's command still was about forty miles from the British Eighth army, which was deployed against Axis positions along the Wadi El Akarit twenty miles north of Gabes.

Consolidated Positions
Despatches from the southern front disclosed that American infantry consolidated newly-won positions in Birrabott Pass, east of El Guettar, today, artillery units knocked out 15 German trucks and destroyed half a dozen guns being towed by the vehicles. There was no activity at Faid, and at Pondouk the situation was reported unchanged.

A French communique said there was patrol and artillery action west of Pichon in Central Tunisia. The Algiers radio said the British first army in the north had advanced without serious opposition to a locality east of Cape Serrat, thirty-five miles west of Bizerte. The German radio said fresh American reserves had been rolled up to the Maknassy front "indicating new attacks will be attempted soon."

Berlin said other U. S. concentrations were observed in the nearby Pichon and Faid Pass sectors.

EMERGENCY FOREST FIRE SERVICE SAVES VALUABLE TIMBERLAND

BALTIMORE, April 5 (AP)—Maryland's emergency forest fire fighting service stepped into action quickly today to knock out a fast-spreading blaze which swept twenty-five acres of timberland in a drive that threatened a housing development near the Glenn L. Martin aircraft plant.

State Forester Joseph F. Kaylor called for a contingent of 500 soldiers from nearby Edgewood arsenal to help in the fight, but the emergency fire fighters had the blaze under control by the time the troops arrived.

Kaylor said the fire, stopped by a fire line cut by a bulldozer, approaching within three-quarters of a mile of the housing development before being checked.

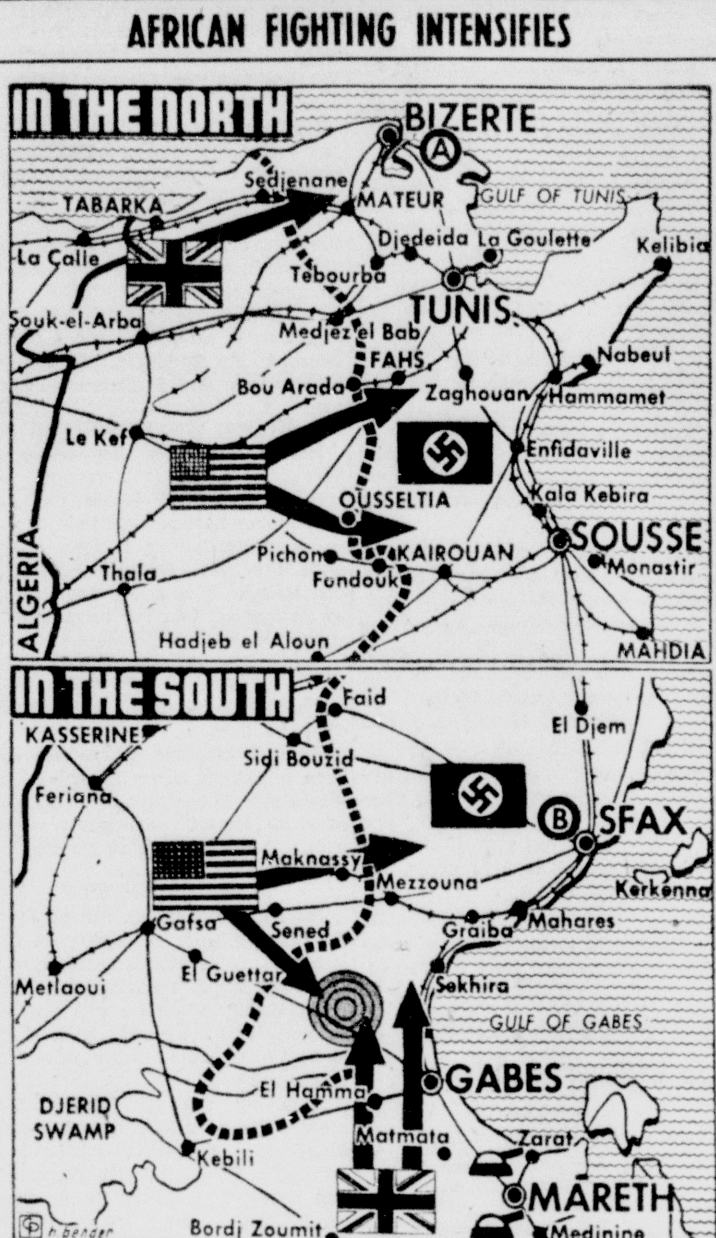

He added that emergency crewmen and soldiers were called after Baltimore county fire companies reported the fire to be out of their control.

Hull Pleads for Continued Right To Make Foreign Trade Agreements

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—Congress received from Secretary of State Hull today a declaration that continued authority for the administration to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements is of paramount importance in prosecuting the war and framing the peace.

The House ways and means committee begins hearings next Monday on the question of extending this authority, first approved in 1934 and due to expire June 12 unless renewed.

In advance of the hearings, Hull discussed the matter before the House Appropriations committee which reported his testimony, re-

FROM NORTH TO SOUTH the Allied pace on all Tunisian fighting fronts speeded perceptibly, with almost every arm of Allied might hurled into combat. The Axis ports of Bizerte (A) and Sfax (B) were pounded by massed air forces. In the south the British Eighth Army was hot on the heels of the fleeing Afrika Korps, and a junction was reported (circle) between Montgomery and Patton.

RUSSIANS ANNOUNCE GAINS IN DRIVE FOR NOVOROSSISK

LONDON, Tuesday, April 6 (AP)—Russian forces driving against the Nazi base at Novorossisk have captured several populated places in two days of hand-to-hand fighting in the Caucasus, and in the Izyum area of the Donets valley have turned back new enemy attempts to cross the river, Moscow announced today.

The midnight communique, recorded here by the Soviet monitor, said also that the Russians consolidated their positions in the ring around Smolensk, and one unit broke through the enemy lines south of Bely and wiped out the occupants of several blockhouses with grenades.

The bulletin said that during the morning hours German tanks and infantry operated in two directions in attempts to outflank Russian units south of Izyum, where the Germans have been trying for several days to push across the Donets, apparently in a drive aimed at the important center of Voroshilovgrad.

The Soviet forces, however, were reported to have repulsed both attacks, disabling four tanks and annihilating about a company of infantry.

In one sector of the narrowing German bridgehead in the north Caucasus, a Russian unit broke into a fortified Nazi zone in a swampy district and captured two lines of trenches.

A German infantry regiment counterattacked, but was repulsed with heavy losses, Moscow said, including hundreds of dead and wounded left on the battlefield and four guns, twenty-three machine-guns and other war material captured.

On the western front Soviet fliers were reported to have raided a railway station in the enemy rear, putting the station out of commission and demolishing the tracks.

"The raid proved so unexpected that German anti-aircraft gunners opened haphazard fire after the fliers had dropped their bombs and left the objective," the communique said.

McNutt, asked about farm labor prospects at a press conference, said he thought the supply would be adequate "not only to plant and cultivate, but likewise to harvest the crops." He indicated that he anticipated the deferred draft status given men engaged in agriculture would do much to keep workers on the farms.

Thousands of Stored Tires Distributed

BALTIMORE, April 5 (AP)—Usable tires stored in local warehouses are moving to dealers at the rate of about 1,000 a day, the Office of War Information announced today. Approximately 9,000 of the 46,000 stored tires have gone out for distribution. The 46,000 are the total number found to be suitable for distribution out of 84,000 collected and stored here, OWI said.

Morgenthau Sees Monetary Chaos As Grave Threat

Has Plan for Post-War Currency, He Says in Statement

By GEORGE CULLEN
WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—Asserting the treasury is "deeply concerned with the threat of international monetary chaos at the end of the war," Secretary Morgenthau disclosed today comprehensive administration plans to stabilize post-war currencies and fix their value in terms of gold.

The administration program, which the secretary emphasized is purely tentative, was outlined to an extraordinary closed session of the Senate committees on Foreign Relations, Banking and Currency, and Post-War Economy and Planning. It involves these major points:

New Financial Program
1. Creation of an international stabilization fund by the United Nations and their associates. A senator who heard Morgenthau said he understood the fund would have a capital of $50,000,000,000.

2. Fixing the value of currencies in terms of gold.
3. An agreement among participating nations not to devalue their currencies without consulting other members of the stabilization funds. This would be similar to the tripartite agreement signed by Great Britain, France and the United States in 1936.

Although his appearance before the Senate committee was in executive session, Morgenthau later told his press conference that he would make public tomorrow the complete draft of the treasury's tentative proposals. They have been submitted to representatives of thirty-four nations invited here for conferences.

Plan $10 "Unitas"
The treasury proposals were reported to include provision for a new world currency unit to be known as "unitas." Treasury officials said the "unitas" would merely be used as a "bookkeeping unit by the stabilization fund and would have a gold-backed value of $10.

Morgenthau appeared annoyed that a "leak" on the proposals had developed in London, and expressed belief this premature disclosure originated among the governments in exile to whom the treasury plan was submitted, and not in official British circles.

The secretary declined to discuss the treasury proposals at his press conference, saying to do so would "break faith" with members of the Foreign Affairs and Finance, Weights and Measures committees, with whom he is to discuss the monetary plans tomorrow.

Wants To Start Now
The secretary told the Senate committee today that America should begin now to devise an international monetary agency because "the completion of such a task is certain to take many months" and because development of a post-war stabilization plan may be a factor in winning the war.

"It has been suggested, and with much cogency," he told the committee in a prepared statement, "that the task of assuring the defeat of the Axis powers would be made easier if the victims of aggression, actual and potential, could have greater assurance that a victory of the United Nations will not mean in the economic sphere a repetition of the exchange instability and monetary collapse that followed the last war."

That assurance should be given now. The people in all of the United Nations must be encouraged to feel themselves on solid ground."

Hershey Now Uncertain on Status Of Fathers under the Draft Law

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—Major General Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, expressed doubt today that the army will soon call for the general drafting of men 38 or over and asserted he was unable to say precisely when it might become necessary to induct fathers. So many factors are involved, he told a press conference, that it is impossible to say definitely that drafting of fathers will begin July 1 or any other date. He previously had told a congressional committee that induction of fathers might start about July 1.

Factors contributing to the uncertainty, he said, include the ex-

Allied Planes Bomb Ten Jap Strongholds

Raid Buka for Three Hours, Gen. MacArthur Reports

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Tuesday, April 6 (AP)—Allied warplanes bombed ten Japanese strongholds Monday, including a three hour harrassing raid on Buka, General MacArthur reported today. The far-flung attacks followed a three-day assault on enemy ships concentrations at Kavieng, New Ireland, during which twelve Japanese vessels, including seven warships of the cruiser or destroyer type, were sunk or damaged.

"Our medium bombers executed an extended night harrassing raid on the airbase and adjacent town areas," the communique said in describing the raid on Buka, an island at the northern tip of the Solomon archipelago.

Bomb Jap Runways
"For three and one-half hours our planes cruised over the target, dropping fragmentation and demolition bombs on the dispersal bays and runways and in Chinatown and Kaki.

"There appeared to be burning aircraft."

"Searchlight and anti-searchlight fire of all calibers were encountered."

"All our planes returned."

In Dutch Guinea, medium units bombed the enemy-occupied village of Timika. Fires were started.

Attack Cargo Ship
Heavy bombers located a 4,000-ton enemy cargo ship in Sekar bay. Close misses were scored with 500-pound bombs but damage to the ship was not determined.

Heavy units of the air arm also bombed and strafed a small enemy surface craft off Zungen point, New Britain.

Other points hit by the bombers included Ubi village and Cape Gloucester in New Britain; the Japanese base at Marang, New Guinea, where the airbase and building area were bombed; the airbase at Pischinschen, New Guinea; the airbase at Salamaua; and villages in the Saldor area.

Hitler Learning What Lies Ahead For Axis Powers

Day and Night Bombing Expected To Bring Positive Results

By GLENN BABB
Associated Press Staff Writer
The roaring processions of British and American heavy bombers across the English channel over the week-end must have caused the Germans to wonder of that time predicted last summer by Air Marshal Harris were not already here: Soon we shall be coming over every night and every day, rain, blow or snow, we and the Americans. Certainly for three days and nights it has been that kind of performance. Here is the schedule:

Friday night the RAF attacked the U-boat lairs at Lorient and St. Nazaire. Saturday the RAF was over Brest and Abbeville; Saturday night the RAF made a "heavy and concentrated" raid on Essen, home of the Krupp works; Sunday 133 American Flying Fortresses "heavily and accurately" bombed the Renault plant near Paris; Sunday night the RAF attacked in "great strength" the U-boat base and shipyards at Kiel; Monday United States Liberators and Flying Fortresses attacked German industrial targets at Antwerp in daylight with "good bombing results."

STEELMAN SEES COMPROMISE SPIRIT IN MINE CONFERENCE

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP)—Dr. John R. Steelman, United States conciliation service head, emerging from the Southern Appalachian soft coal wage conference tonight, said he saw "a spirit of compromise" between the United Mine Workers' representatives and operators, negotiating for a new contract.

Meanwhile, the UMW announced today it would carry its case to the American public through a large-scale advertising campaign. Initial five-column advertisements, the UMW said, would appear tomorrow in fifty-nine newspapers throughout the nation, detailing an eight-point argument for wage increases.

Steelman Optimistic
Dr. Steelman expressed a hope that the dispute could be settled through direct negotiation and that it would be necessary to certify it to the national labor board, as recommended by Edward W. Burke, president of the Southern Coal Producers Association.

While he found the compromise spirit in the southern conference, he also noted, Steelman said earlier, that the Northern Appalachian operators and miner representatives were "deadlocked on some points and not deadlocked on others."

Referring to Burke's proposal, he said:

"Burke's suggestion was that the conference was stalemated and that the entire matter ought to be referred to the WLB as early as possible."

"After he made the suggestion, we got into other discussions, and for the time being, no conclusion was reached on the general situation."

Both northern and southern conferences will be reconvened at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Major UMW demands for 450,000 miners include a $2 basic daily pay increase, an $8 minimum for all who work in the mine fields, unionization of minor bosses, and pay for time of entry to time of departure from the mines.

Important Decision Looms
At the close of the southern conference, Burke said that "there is an important decision that must be made, and made very soon," but he declined to amplify the statement. Maj. Percy Tetlow, union spokesman, declared:

"We are of the opinion that the answers to certain questions can be reached here. We had rather go with an agreement to any tribunal (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Hints at Sensation
Uhl was asked if the "matters" were the sensational testimony recently at a Truman Senate committee hearing in Washington by employees of the steel company's nearby Irvin Works, that faked tests of steel had been made.

"I can't say yes, or no," replied Uhl. "Your guess is as good as mine. It is a matter for the Justice Department in Washington to decide whether to make public."

Officials in Washington declined to comment for publication. The disclosures about the alleged faked steel tests came after a ship, being launched at a Kaiser west coast shipyard, broke in two. Testimony showed some of the plates had been obtained from Carnegie-Illinois, principal operating subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation.

Erla Airplane Works Pounded In Heavy Raid

Withering Aerial Attack Carried Out With "Good Results"

Liberators and Fortresses Escorted by Many Spitfires

By LEO BRANHAM

LONDON, April 5 (AP)—Living up to Major Gen. Ira C. Eaker's recent promise to match the RAF blow-for-blow in a withering aerial attack on Hitler's industrial Europe, a huge force of American Flying Fortresses and Liberators pounded the Erla airplane repair works near Antwerp in Belgium today to follow up a heavy British assault on Kiel, Germany, last night.

Today's attack by the high-flying, precision-bombing American ships was declared to have been carried out with "good results." A DNB dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio said the raiders scored direct hits "on blocks of houses, which caused fires and destruction and severe losses among the civil population" of Antwerp.

Another Raid Probable
Radio stations in Munich, Stuttgart, Koenigsburg, Luxembourg, Lausanne and Burgomunster, Switzerland, went off the air late tonight, indicating Allied bombers were over the continent again.

The air ministry announced tonight that during the afternoon British Venturas of the bomber command, escorted by fighters, attacked docks and shipping at Brest. One enemy fighter was knocked down, but three British bombers and one fighter were reported missing.

The American's first attack in the area of Belgium's second largest city was carried out by what observers on the English coast at Folkestone described as the greatest single force they had ever seen crossing the channel. The big four-motored planes were escorted all the way to the target and back to the coast of England by an array of Spitfire fighters.

See Hits Register
Fighter opposition was described as "heavy." Four bombers and one escorting fighter were missing, while two German planes were known to have been shot down by Spitfires and a number of others by the bombers. Returning pilots said the sky over the target was clear and they saw their hits register squarely.

The Erla plant formerly was the Minerva automobile factory, but its facilities now are employed by the Germans to repair planes and plane engines. Flak over the target was described as "moderate but accurate." Pocke-Wulf 190 and Messerschmitt 109 fighters tried all the way from the coast to blunt the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

GOVERNORS TO DISCUSS POST-WAR PERIOD AT NEW YORK SESSION

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 5 (AP)—The responsibility of the state in the post-war period will be the general topic of discussion at the regional conference of New England and Middle Atlantic states, sponsored by the Council of State Governments, April 9, 10, and 11 in New York. Governor O'Connor, president of the council, said today.

More than 200 persons were expected to attend the conference, O'Connor stated, including governors, attorneys general, secretaries of state, members of defense councils and commissions on interstate cooperation.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York will open the conference Friday morning, and Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts will act as general chairman of the conference. Gov. O'Connor will address the meeting on "responsibility of the state in the post-war period."

OPA Tightens Controls Over Prices of Meat

New Retail Ceiling Prices Become Effective April 15

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—OPA tightened its controls over meat today by setting retail ceiling prices for beef, veal, lamb and mutton, and forbidding stores to reduce point values of any rationed meats and fats without also cutting prices.

The two actions are designed, officials said, to eliminate confusion arising from store-to-store variations in ceilings, help stamp out black markets in meat, and guard against abuse of the privilege stores have of reducing point values in order to sell perishable rationed items.

They predicted the new ceilings will mean "in most cases less than the prices which consumers have been paying recently."

12 Regions Fixed

Heretofore, ceilings on beef, veal, lamb and mutton for each store have been the highest prices it charged in March, 1942. Today's order divides the country into twelve regions and fixes uniform ceilings in each except that small independent stores are allowed to charge one to three cents a pound more for various cuts than are the bigger outlets. The higher prices may be charged only by stores which did not more than $250,000 worth of business last year.

This price differential is intended to preserve the historical price relationship between smaller stores and the larger ones able to hold down unit costs by volume sales.

Similar, dollar-and-cents prices for pork established April 1, and the regional zones outlined in today's order are the same as for pork except that the mid-western four and four-A zones are combined.

The order on "point sales" directs that any retailer reducing point values must reduce the price at least twenty-five percent under the established ceiling. If point values are cut more than twenty-five percent, a corresponding percentage reduction must be made in the price but it need not, in any case, be reduced more than fifty percent.

No Hardships Expected

Since it is the usual practice to reduce when items must be sold quickly to avoid spoilage, OPA said, the regulation should work no hardship on retailers who, in good faith, avail themselves of the point lowering privilege.

OPA said it is also expected that the ceilings will bring about better distribution of meats. At present, some stores with low ceilings prices have found it unprofitable to handle meat while others, with higher ceilings, have a normal operating margin between wholesale and retail prices.

Not included under the new price ceilings are sausage, canned meat and variety meats (liver, brains, kidneys, etc.) but ceilings are being worked out for them. A separate price list also is to be issued for kosher-killed meat.

Price variations between different sections of the country under the ceilings amount to only a cent or two a pound on most items. The price of grade "A" airline for instance, is set at forty-four cents a pound for the big stores in the Kansas City-Dallas, Denver-Albuquerque, and Chicago-St. Louis zones. The prices are forty-five and forty-six cents in the Detroit-Pittsburgh, and Atlanta-New Orleans areas, and forty-six-forty eight elsewhere.

Baltimore City Primary Attracts Little Attention

Jackson Seems Likely To Win Nomination; McKeldin "In"

BALTIMORE, April 5 (AP)—The political pot was bubbling tonight as candidates made last minute appeals for support in tomorrow's mayoral and councilmanic primary.

Political observers said a light vote was in prospect. The general election will be held May 4.

Howard W. Jackson, who has been mayor of Baltimore for four terms is a candidate once again, subject to the Democratic primary. Three others oppose him for the Democratic nomination—William R. McCloy, head of the commission which produced the much-battered state liquor control bill, State Senator Wilmer C. Carter, and Former Representative John A. Meyer.

Theodore R. McKeldin, whose vote in the election for governor last fall gave the Republicans much encouragement, is unopposed for the G.O.P. nomination for mayor. Although Henry T. Reutter filed for the nomination, he later announced he was not working for it and favored McKeldin.

Perhaps the tightest race in the Democratic city-wide primary will be that between Lieut. Col. Richard C. O'Connell, who is seeking the Democratic renomination for president of the city council, and who is opposed by Thomas E. Conlon, speaker of the House of Delegates.

The fight for the Democratic nomination also was expected to be close, with both candidates—Howard E. Crook and William T. Childs—having many adherents.

On the Democratic side there are contests in each of the six districts for nomination for places on the city council. The Republicans have a fight in the fourth district. Three councilmen are elected from each of the districts.

motor transport columns sharply in the Medjez-El-Bab sector, thirty-five miles southwest of Tunis. Patrols of Moroccan Goumiers and Britons were active farther north in the sector between Sedjenane and Mateur, the key to Bizerte eighteen miles farther on to the northeast.

The Naples raid was four times as heavy as any of the five previous attacks by Liberator bombers and for the first time the Americans used French African bases instead of the Western desert.

Of the twenty-four ships hit in the harbor, three were liners and three were submarines. Numerous smaller craft were hit as well as a floating dry dock.

The Capodichino airbase at Naples was pockmarked with a saturated bomb pattern, and returning pilots reported at least twenty-one of the ninety-seven grounded aircraft were struck. The whole raid lasted but fourteen minutes and all the fortresses returned to their bases.

"Great damage was caused to public and private buildings" in Naples and Syracuse, the Italians said. The dead in Naples were said to total 221 and the injured 387. Syracuse was raided by planes from Malta, a British communique disclosed. The Italians said four were killed and twenty injured in Syracuse and twelve killed and thirty injured in Carlotro. Four raiding planes were reported shot down.

The Naples raid was only a part of the destructive offensive of the Allied air forces that rule the Mediterranean skies. In operations Sunday, forty Axis planes were destroyed and five Allied craft were lost. Eleven enemy ships were shot down in combat and twenty-nine destroyed aground.

government and in the Atlantic charter, the United Nations declaration, and in more than a dozen lend-lease agreements, to enable the United States to occupy the position of leadership now in laying the groundwork for postwar, worldwide economic reconstruction.

Agreements with thirty nations have been negotiated, each providing for mutual reduction of some tariffs with the aim of promoting trade. Hull said three more agreements—with Iceland, Bolivia and Iran—are under study.

While Hull stressed the agreements' relation to the post-war economic world, Thurman Arnold, who recently retired as head of the Justice department's anti-trust division, the committee they are "meant to become a federal judge, unless international cartels are broken up."

"What is the use of talking about reciprocal trade treaties in South America?" Arnold asked. "We have secret organizations operating, x x x. We make reciprocal trade treaties, and these things are meaningless with the existence of these cartels."

Cartels were a frequent target of Arnold when he was assistant attorney general. At various times, he complained that world markets for many products, particularly chemical and pharmaceutical items, had been divided up among big concerns in Germany, France, England and the United States having agreements, or cartels, among themselves.

American Entry

hitherto seemed to require the arming of nations," Mr. Wilson said in approving the companion-piece to the 1917 war declaration designed to call 10,000,000 American to the colors for the struggle.

Events of the decade that followed blasted that hope utterly. They made a mockery of peace dreams and produced a greater, more terrible war to mark this American war anniversary.

Millions Face Death

Millions more in many lands have died and will die to stem the Axis juggernaut of conquest and revive shattered dreams of world peace. Against Hitlerized Germany and her Italian and Japanese and lesser Axis mater, the sons and the sons' sons of pershing's AEF crusaders of 1917-18 are fighting on battle fronts that girdle the globe, shoulder to shoulder with united nation comrades, to vindicate anew the faith for which their fathers took up arms. The distant thunder of their guns and bombs more fittingly salutes this grim war anniversary than could any spoken or written word.

Behind it comes the rumbling crescendo of a nation dedicating every resource and energy to assuring its valiant fighting sons ultimate and complete victory. It comes as grim portents of events to come as was the Wilson signature of the war resolution a quarter century ago.

Scanning the dusty records of that April 6, 1917, the impression they leave is that of utter national confidence in victory. Washington was feverish with war making; yet through it all ran that note of complete confidence in the outcome relatively to soon justified. And that note is as dominant today in the new and more bitter fight against aggression both at the fighting fronts and at home.

History Repeats

Then as now seas dangerously infested with enemy submarines surged between American armies and their foes; but more than 2,000,000 fighting men crossed them to clinch the Allied victory. Almost as many if not more have crossed dangerous waters both east and west in this war on the same mission and millions more are making ready to follow them into action.

Then as now thoughts of the nature and machinery of the peace that would come with victory paralleled the war effort—so certain were the nation's leaders of the final outcome. Preparations not for another armistice; but for unconditional surrender of the Axis are keeping pace with battle events.

Tomorrow also is army day, in peace times reserved to stir public interest in the men and equipment of the land forces as navy day in October celebrate the deeds and needs of the sea service. Every April 6 since its designation the army has kept open house at its posts and camps for the American public.

There is no need of that this year. American troops and sailors alike need no further introduction to the folks at home than their deeds in far lands and seas afford. They are keeping open house this army day from Africa to Australia and back again around the world—keeping it for the foe, proving their mettle against seasoned Axis veterans wherever they meet.

raid and then followed the bombers back for many miles, concentrating on the leading group.

Fighter support for the American bombers included Canadian and Polish Spitfire squadrons, a Norwegian squadron and two RAF squadrons. The Norwegians were credited with shooting down both German fighters that were definitely listed as destroyed.

Many Week-End Blows

The latest blow in the United Nations' aerial offensive came on the heels of one of the busiest week-ends of the war for Allied bombers based in Britain, and followed a pulverizing attack by 133 American Flying Fortresses yesterday on the Renault Armament and Engine Works a few miles from the center of Paris. The British had pounded Essen, home of the Krupp works, Saturday night.

Since Friday night, when the RAF struck heavy and concentrated blows on the Nazi U-boat bases at St. Nazaire and Lorient in France, fleets of Allied four-engined bombers, fighter-bombers, fighters and coastal command planes have struck almost continuously at the continent from the Baltic to the Bay of Biscay.

Use of the phrase "great strength" by the air ministry in describing the number of British heavy bombers which blasted the Nazi submarine base and shipbuilding yards at Kiel last night led experienced observers to conclude that the attacking force was the largest dispatched over Germany in several weeks, though probably not up to the 1,000-plane strength of the greatest raids.

The air ministry said several huge fires lighted Kiel but the complete observation of the damage done was impossible because of heavy clouds. Twelve bombers were lost in this seventy-first attack on the submarine base.

Two Motorists Booked

Charles Moses Dicken, 623 Leiper street, and Fred Leroy Labor, Probstburg, were arrested at 11:15 p. m. yesterday by Officer E. M. Powell on charges of driving through a white traffic light at Baltimore and Mechanic streets. Each motorist posted $5 bond for a hearing this morning in police court.

Chicago Election May Unseat Kelly

More Than a Million Voters Expected To Go To Polls Today

CHICAGO, April 5 (AP)—For the third time in eight years Republicans will attempt to unseat Mayor Edward J. Kelly tomorrow in a city election that is expected to bring out 1,000,000 or more voters.

Kelly, Democrat who has been head of the municipal government for ten years, is opposed by George B. McKibbin, a Republican ally of Gov. Dwight H. Green and a civic leader for two decades.

Politicians predicted that between 1,000,000 and 1,200,000 citizens would mark ballots, and thus determine whether Kelly should be elected to his third full term or McKibbin should be mayor for the next four years.

The brisk campaign revolved chiefly around Chicago and Illinois issues, although some Republicans contended the food and rationing programs had been handled poorly and that public reaction would be reflected at the polls.

The election also attracted national interest because it will furnish a sizable sampling of voting trends between the 1942 and 1944 campaigns.

Gov. Green took an active part in the attack on Kelly's administration. He charged there was an "alliance of criminals and crooked politicians."

McKibbin, who resigned as director of the State Department of Finance to make the mayoral race, promised to "destroy the Kelly machine" to cut taxes, and to "drive racketeers from the town."

Kelly, selected as mayor by the city council in 1933 to fill the unexpired term of Anton Cermak, and elected in 1935 and 1939 by decisive margins, ran on his record. He asserted the city had reduced crime and had progressed generally. He contended the governor's State Commerce Commission was blocking Chicago's plan to unify and improve its transportation systems.

Hitler Learning

any part of the new dark continent can be considered immune to the scourging of the Allied bombers. Fleets of American four-motored bombers comparable to those which cross the English channel are now in position to blast the southern shores, as Naples and Cagliari have learned in recent days. Both have suffered blows of such destructiveness as to greatly decrease their value in Axis preparations for the coming finale in Tunisia, either as supply ports or bases for a possible "Dunkerg fleet."

Prepare for Invasion

The bombing campaign is one of three closely interlinked phases of the United Nations' program, the others being the war on the U-boats and preparation for the coming invasion or invasion of the continent. The bombers are playing an important role in the submarine campaign, carrying the battle of the Atlantic clear to the factories that produce U-boats parts and to the shipyards that assemble them as well as to their lairs on the Atlantic coast. At the same time they are doing the preliminary work of the invasion program, softening up both western and southern Europe for the blows to come.

We have the word of the best Allied authorities that this is only a forerunner of what is to come. And yet the results already must have meant considerable crippling of Hitler's war machine. Great areas of a dozen of Germany's greatest industrial cities have been laid in ruins. Havoc have been done to transportation, one of the weak links in the German war effort. Experts say it takes eight or nine months for such destruction to make itself felt in the actual arrival of war materials on the fronts, and the Reich has been under heavy although still intermittent raids for nearly a year now. It is more than ten months since the first 1,000-plane raid on Cologne.

U. S. Force Growing

The United States air force in Britain is not yet of the size necessary for attacks of that scale and its bomb loads still are measured in hundreds of tons instead of the thousands of the RAF's Lancasters and Stirlings deliver in their night forays. But the American contribution to the bombing war already is an important one and there is every indication that the coming weeks will see it grow tremendously.

Gridley's Concert May 4 To Include 22 Titles And 43 Movements

John S. Gridley, well known local organist will give the fifth of his projected twelve annual recitals of Bach music at the First Presbyterian Church, May 4.

The concert will include twenty-two titles with forty-three movements, Gridley said, and the program will start at 7:30 p. m. The program is exceptionally long, the musician explained, because he is crowding into twelve concerts, what Lynnwood Farnam played in twenty.

Of the twenty-two selections to feature this concert, Gridley's favorite composition is the Fantasia and Fugue in C Minor on the eighteenth piece on his May 4 program. This piece, it is claimed, marks the transition from Bach's earliest period to a stage of some independence.

a movement of workers from industry to farming.

"The movement has stopped," would you say, away from the farm, and it has started to move back to some extent at least," asked Senator Lodge (R-Mass.).

"I don't know that it has stopped, but the swing the other way has started," Wickard replied.

F. Lester Smith, State Firemen's President, Dies

FREDERICK, Md., April 5 (AP)—Capt. F. Lester Smith, president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association since last June, died today in city hospital a month after being stricken with paralysis. He was sixty-five years old.

Climaxing a long period of service as a volunteer fireman and deputy state fire marshal for this area, Smith was named president by the volunteer firemen at their annual convention in Frederick last June.

Smith served overseas in the first World War with the One Hundred and Fifteenth Infantry and was awarded a citation for gallantry in the brilliant leadership of his platoon in the Verdun sector during the Meuse-Argonne offensive, Oct. 16, 1918.

A former officer in the Maryland National Guard, Smith also had served as adjutant of the first Maryland regiment. He was the first past commander of Francis Scott Key Post, American Legion, to die.

For the last three years he had been president of the Citizens' Truck Company and was the first president of the Frederick County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Two Valuable Canines Are Victims of Poison

Two valuable canines—"Mitzi," a coal black Cocker Spaniel, owned by Miss Mary Thompson, 618 Frederick street, and "Stinnaker," an eight-year-old pet Chesapeake Bay Retriever, belonging to Lt. James Alfred Alvrett, now serving in the United States Army—died in recent days, the victims of poison.

"Mitzi," a six-year-old cocker, has been a pet of the Thompson household for the past two years. She seldom was left outside of the house. "Mitzi," however, was missing for fifteen minutes the other day, and when she returned home she collapsed and tumbled down the cellar stairs and died. "Death by poison" was the verdict of a veterinarian.

Lt. Alvrett left "Stinnaker" here to serve as a watchdog for Mrs. Alvrett. He was found dead near the river. "Stinnaker" was a lovable, neighborhood dog and the many kids who played with him will no doubt mourn his passing.

Max Stephan Loses His Final Appeal

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—Max Stephan, Detroit restaurant owner sentenced to hang for treason, lost today his bid for a supreme court review of his conviction of shielding a German who fled a Canadian prison camp.

Without comment, the court turned down his appeal, apparently closing Stephan's last avenue of escape from the scaffold.

Stephan's attorneys contended that he was prompted by personal motives in harboring Peter Krug, German aviator, and that he should not have been convicted of treason because he had no intention of aiding Germany. The Justice department, on the other hand, argued that Stephan, a German-born naturalized citizen, received a fair trial and that the death penalty should be carried out as "adequate warning to all other potential traitors."

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Laying Out a Vegetable Garden

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Neatness in the Victory garden is essential. Tools also should be kept clean. Dirty tools are evidence of a lazy gardener. Clean tools can do more work and faster.

A great deal of equipment is not necessary for a Victory garden, but before undertaking to plant seeds or set out plants, gather together four stout stakes, each 18 inches long. These should be used to mark the four corners of the garden plot.

A ruler also is necessary, to measure the space between the rows. Rows should be regularly and properly spaced, therefore a ruler is essential. The garden line is also an essential piece of equipment. For this purpose nothing is better than a heavy, tightly twisted cord, such as that used on window shades. The use of the corner stakes and stakes to hold the line marking the rows is shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

As each garden row is planted it should be labeled. Twelve-inch label stakes, as illustrated, are most practical. At the top of the label put the planting date, below the source of supply of seed, under this the variety (lengthwise) and below that the year. Such information will prove of real value when next year's garden is planned and one wants to refer to the harvest results of this year's plantings.

Assembly Results Please O'Connor

By DONALD SANDERS
ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 5 (AP)—As weary legislative employees struggled through their records today in an effort to find out what legislation was passed and what was not in the hectic closing days of the 1943 session, the administration could boast that virtually its entire program had been enacted into law.

Even administration leaders must have had some uncomfortable moments during the closing hours, however, for with a few exceptions the bills openly backed by Governor O'Connor did not complete the perilous path through the Assembly until the closing days.

Those Mass Raids By Flying Fortresses

IN A SINGLE RAID on the Renault motor works in suburban Paris, which is reported to have been of devastating effectiveness, no fewer than 133 Flying Fortresses participated.

This single sally of big American bombers in what has for some time been an almost continuous around-the-clock air assault on Germany and Occupied France, gives an impressive indication of the growing Allied air power in consequence of the increasing American contribution and the stepped-up production in Britain.

Continued prosecution of these air raids by the Allies also indicates that, despite the debate on the subject, they are proving effective. Certainly if they were not, as some have feared, the Allied command would not tolerate the campaign.

Another thing impressed by these growing raids is the enormous gasoline supplies necessary for their operation. Just how much gasoline one of these huge Flying Fortresses requires to operate for an hour, or for mileage, cannot be cited on the instant, and perhaps it is a military secret, but the quantity needed for 133 of them in a single expedition of the kind noted must be tremendous. Hence, those who are irked by the curtailment of gasoline supplies for domestic use may find some consolation about it when reading of such raids as this one made on Paris. It should make the car owner feel that his deprivation is assuredly helping toward a speedier victory.

Germans Will Be Last To Starve

THE GERMANS spoke truth when they said that all the peoples in Europe they will be the last to starve.

Take the situation in Holland. According to the Netherlands Information Bureau, the food scarcity in that unhappy, conquered land is becoming increasingly acute. Only recently the German-controlled press announced that the weekly meat ration had been reduced from seven to four and one-half ounces, including bones, with the new ration applying to all persons over four years of age.

Workers in heavy industry are allowed ten and one-half ounces of meat a week. The food shortage, the bureau says, has become so serious that the sale of cat and dog meat has been made legal by the Nazis and these supplies bring a high price when they are obtainable.

How fares the Nazi commissioner, Dr. Arthur Seyes-Inquart, who lives amid this desolate scene as he runs the show for Hitler? According to Vrij Nederland, a Dutch weekly published in London, the commissioner has become the No. 1 food hoarder in Holland.

First he appropriated a villa in the town of Wassenaar, near The Hague, and filled several of its rooms with foodstuffs. When the place became too crowded with canned goods, hams and sausages, the German commissioner merely requisitioned another private house in The Hague. The London newspaper says that several rooms in the second house now are "packed with rice, oats, tins of coffee and tea, ham and sausage." The place looks more like a large grocery store than a private home, the publication says.

The Germans were right when they said that all the peoples of Europe they will be the last to starve.

A Mistake Not Likely To Be Repeated

WHEN the Allies clean up Rommel in Tunisia, it is not probable that they will make the mistake Hitler made at Dunkerque when he failed to follow up his victory and gave the British ample time to construct defenses against invasion. Whether Hitler's forces were too exhausted to continue the fighting after driving the Britons off French soil or another reason caused the Nazi pause at the Channel will not be explained until after the war, but this is constantly referred to in Allied circles as Hitler's greatest mistake of the war.

That's why observers believe the Allies will not make a similar mistake in Tunisia. They hold that the defeat of Rommel will be followed by immediate invasion of Italy. This, it is expected, will be preceded by devastating bombing of Italian ports from the air—which is already under way.

There is conjecture, in fact, whether an attempt to invade Italy may not be made before Rommel is liquidated. By hemming the Nazi forces in a small sector in Tunisia and controlling the Mediterranean by sea and from the air, the Allies could strike at Italy while waiting for starvation to wind up Rommel's career in Africa.

This by-passing technique has been used effectively by the Russians, and upon it was based Hitler's strategy in the fighting in France. It was employed successfully by Gen. Montgomery in conquering the Mareh Line.

The feeling is growing that the fighting in Tunisia will not be followed by a hiatus but will increase in intensity until it overflows into a second front. Perhaps the fact that all indications point to Italy as the point of entry for the Allies into Europe is an indication that the blow against Hitler will fall elsewhere. Generals sometimes do the obvious thing, but frequently they do not.

In the meantime, over-optimistic persons who seem to think that the war will be decided in Tunisia should take another look at the map.

Mutterings In Munich

"HITLER TO THE GALLOWS" is a slogan an American hardly would expect to see scrawled on walls and printed in circulars in Munich, headquarters of the Nazi party. But the signs appeared and because of them the Gestapo executed several Munich university students for subversive activity and agitation against the Hitler regime. The students arrested were reported to be members of families prominent socially, industrially and in Catholic circles.

The story is significant. Not only does it indicate extreme dissatisfaction with Nazi rule in the very birthplace of Nazism, but it shows that at least some German youngsters have escaped the fanatical teachings and control of the Hitler youth movement and are expressing opinions of their own at the risk of their lives.

The Gestapo is still to be reckoned with, however, in any agitation against Hitler and the Nazi hierarchy, and the Gestapo can be counted on to put down any such manifestations with the utmost brutality whenever they come to light.

But the spirit of revolt always flourishes under brutal rulers. The families and friends of the executed students will not forget their sacrifices. Their reactions, though necessarily under cover, can be nonetheless effective. And what happens in Bavaria can happen elsewhere in Germany. Even a little revolt on the home front could be sufficient to set off a holocaust at the right moment.

Having submitted a plan for everybody, from the cradle to the grave, the president might investigate the propriety of assuring a satisfactory existence in the next world.

The Browser's Bookshelf

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Vincent Sheehan, who roams the world with eye and mind alert for incidents, personalities, ideas and the significance of the passing scene, has written another valuable book—which is second only in usefulness to his "Personal History," that stunner of the thirties. The title, "Between the Thunder and the Sun" (Random House) is taken from one of George Sterling's poems.

Vincent Sheehan is a discerning and intelligent man with a great sense of the drift of events and a feeling for the inevitable imminent. The book begins in Salzburg, Austria, during the last of the great music festivals to which music lovers and tuff-hunters came. Hitler is screaming beyond the frontier, but few hear what he shouts. It moves to a villa on the Mediterranean, where Mrs. Sheehan's aunt, Maxine Elliott, lives magnificently with such guests as Winston Churchill, the Duke of Windsor, Lloyd George and many another.

Churchill, out of power and dreaming of no return, chats magnificently and mellows into greater strength. The little duke calls the Russians scoundrels and thieves and praises German achievements without realizing that they antedated Hitler.

The scene shifts to Paris at the instant of its fall—and that unbelievable crew that made her fall inevitable. It moves to England in the months of Dunkirk and the blitz and Churchill's rise, and Sheehan recalls that he came close to "isolationism" in 1939-1940, "thinking that the free or freedom-looking peoples of Europe had deserved their impending conquest by the enemy of the human race."

The next act is in Chungking in the autumn before Pearl Harbor—and although Sheehan has great admiration for the Chinese people, respect for Chiang Kai-shek himself and for Madame Chiang's democratic principles, he is no indiscriminating worshipper of the present regime.

Next comes the Philippines, Wake Island, Midway, Pearl Harbor, home and December 7, and the pattern of the book is complete—with England, the United States, China and Russia in the war together.

A wise book and, to this reader, a profoundly moving one.

No other book written about the war in the Pacific can touch war correspondent Clark Lee's "They Call It Pacific" (Viking). Sheehan's book is analytical, Lee's is action—a powerfully objective and courageous history of the first year of war by a newsmen who covered 40,000 miles in ten months—from Bataan to the Solomons—before he came home last fall to rest and write this book.

Clark Lee was on the point of coming home in November, 1941, after five years in the Orient. He had sent his wife ahead of him to Honolulu, promising to follow soon; he did not see her for seven months, by way of Corregidor and Tulagi. Lee doesn't know any recipe for mingling words, his judgments are cold, clear, realistic and confidence-inspiring. His contempt for bungling stupidity is patent, but his admiration for courage and brains is equally obvious. This book is a "must."

BOOK ENDS: Chris Massie's "The Green Circle" (Random) is a disturbing story of madness and murder, split personality and fantastic imaginings. A special tale of special appeal to special people. New Set of Rules For War Contracts May Be Solution

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Four government agencies concerned with taking excessive profits out of war contracts have agreed upon a set of principles which will guide them in renegotiating billions of dollars of war orders.

The War and Navy departments, the Maritime Commission and the Treasury departments have set forth this code to add business men in adjusting their policies when dealing with the final prices to be charged by the government for making the munitions of war.

Recently the Senate committee investigating national defense, headed by Senator Truman, of Missouri, Democrat, issued a very constructive report on the whole renegotiation problem and the new pronouncement by the four war agencies follows the course outlined by the committee insofar as it is practicable at this time.

The whole renegotiation practice is in an evolutionary stage and it will take some time to correct all the delays and overcome the difficulties inherent in the re-making of billions of dollars of contracts.

The theory back of renegotiation is that the government cannot tell in advance and often the manufacturer cannot tell either just what certain munitions-making will cost, so what amounts to a tentative contract is made subject to renegotiation when the production is far enough along to make a more equitable estimate of costs—fair to the government and the taxpayers and fair to the manufacturers.

Tax Method Insufficient

It has been argued that excess profits can be recovered by either the present high tax rates or even higher rates, but the Truman committee wisely points out even though the amounts refunded would have been recovered to the extent of about eighty per cent by taxes there are certain instances where per cents and tax rates do not prevent excessive profits in particular types of contracts and where large volume is involved. The Truman committee says that the renegotiation procedure can perform a vital function which increased taxes cannot perform—first, in keeping over-all costs at a minimum as against a tendency to let costs rise because they are deductible anyway for tax purposes, and second, in providing effective incentives to keep production at the maximum.

Many able men have been brought to Washington to carry out the renegotiation procedures. The work has been hampered by a belief among some business men that the law would be changed. The Truman committee warns against any such probability. The new set of principles to be added to as experience demonstrates the need—gives the first vital step toward uniformity of action by all four agencies dealing with war contracts.

Seven Principles

"In considering whether costs or profits on war contracts are excessive," the statement says in part, "the price adjustment boards are guided by the following broad principles:

"(A) That the stimulation of quality production is of primary importance.

"(B) That reasonable profits in every case should be determined with reference to the particular performance factors present without limitation or restriction by any fixed formula with respect to rate of profit, or otherwise.

"(C) That the profits of the contractor ordinarily will be determined on his war business as a whole for a fiscal period, rather than on specific contracts separately, with the possible exception of certain construction contracts. Fixed price contracts are negotiated separately.

Up to the end of January, Chairman Maurice Karker, of the War department's Price Adjustment board, has renegotiated prices and profits on contracts totaling about $8,600,000,000 and has arranged the refund of $1,045,000,000 or about twelve per cent of those contracts. The other departments are also able to show some 1942 refunds but the 1943 figures probably will be substantially larger. It isn't always the amount of the refund but the insistence on a principle of equitable profit which represents the chief endeavor of the four government agencies engaged in renegotiation.

Economic Planning Schemes Can Harm Peace Settlement, Mark Sullivan Says

By MARK SULLIVAN

A contribution to post-war discussion is about to be made by Alf M. Landon, Republican candidate for president in 1936.

The forthcoming address, as outlined by Mr. Landon to a correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, will advise the country "against precipitate action and emotional excesses in the matter of economic and political planning for the post-war world."

This expression of concern reflects a feeling held by many Republicans and Democrats. And this feeling is the largest handicap to progress toward any plan for peace arrangements after the war.

To make the feeling clear, divide each and all post-war proposals into two groups. One group has the simple purpose of maintaining peace. The other has the purpose which Mr. Landon has in mind when he speaks of "economic planning."

To the first, there is, almost literally, no objection. Not only does everybody want a mechanism for preserving peace, there is a striking tolerance about methods, a patient willingness to consider proposals without prejudice or partisanship. Any plan to preserve peace—assuming that, after discussion and comparison it is recognized as promising—will receive from the American people such unity of support as rarely existed.

Something More Feared

But there is a widespread apprehension that the administration contemplates something more than a mechanism for peace—that it contemplates what Mr. Landon describes as "economic planning" on a world basis. To put the apprehension as it is frequently put in public discussion, it is that the administration may use the peace conference as a means for setting up a world-wide "economic plan."

Before going further, let us be clear that the line separating peace objectives from economic objectives, is not a line between black and white. There are international steps needing to be taken which do not fall within the category of steps to preserve peace. An example is the coming international conference on currency. International agreement about currency is needed at all times and under any condition. Such a conference was called by the latest Republican President, Mr. Hoover. Some economic steps are wholesome of themselves, and help to preserve peace. An example is the system of reciprocal trade relations sponsored by Secretary of State Hull.

Wallace Dreams Unacceptable

But the apprehension is that some within the administration contemplate steps which would seem as foreign to Mr. Hull as to others. Indeed the distinction between what would be normal and within the scope of average American thought, and on the other hand what the Administration is suspected of contemplating—that distinction can be symbolized by the difference between the world policies of Mr. Hull, and those which Vice-President Wallace proclaims. Mr. Hull's trade treaties, while debated and opposed, have been accepted by Congress, and probably will be again. But Mr. Wallace's dreams, if they could be reduced to anything concrete enough to vote upon, would almost certainly be rejected by a large majority of the Senate, and by a majority of American thought.

The apprehension about the administration, which befalls thought about post-war proposals, which injects bitterness into domestic politics and thereby makes unity impossible, is that the administration wishes to impose on the world, not merely the New Deal as understood in America, but an extension of the New Deal, with additional ideas and mechanisms made necessary to conform with other countries.

Voters Are Cautious

Concede that much of the New Deal as known to America is acceptable. But consider that American voters are habitually cautious about foreign relations. While willing to accept the New Deal in America, they would utterly reject an adventure by which America would set up and maintain a new order throughout the world.

The New Deal as an experiment within America, is not supported by any overwhelming majority of the voters. As of today, it may not have a majority at all. In the present Congress, the New Deal, as distinguished from the Democratic party, does not command a majority, embodied in a peace treaty, would need to be ratified by two-thirds of the Senate.

The sum of all this is: If a program for peace is limited to peace, if it remains within the scope of peace, it will be accepted by American opinion and ratified by the Senate. But if, the program for peace there is added a program for world-wide economic planning, both may fail.

The Draft Of Fathers

From the Cincinnati Times Star

If anyone in Washington has a clear idea of the draft status of married men with children he has apparently kept his mouth shut. It is almost impossible to piece together an understandable picture from the recent statements and policies of national Selective Service headquarters.

It is perfectly obvious that if we are to have 11,000,000 men in the armed forces by the end of this year, fathers will have to be drafted. The supply of single men is exhausted. Within a few months all married men without children and those with collateral dependents will be cleaned out. The fathers will then be the only ones left.

But the statements of Draft Director Hershey, the manpower situation and the daily bulletins ordering this reclassification and that one on the basis of essential work or the number of children or what have you, hopelessly confuse the situation. No father can be blamed for wondering just where he stands.

The operation of the Selective Service system is, of course, no easy job. The draft boards have, on the whole, accomplished a very unpleasant task with a great deal of efficiency. But their job has been made harder than need be by the conflicting announcements that continue to emanate from Washington. Their registrants in turn are suffering from doubt and confusion. Sooner or later a definite policy will have to be adopted. Until that happens government officials should stop thinking out loud.

Bullitt is Viewed As Strong Factor In Peace Plans

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

William C. Bullitt took a prominent part in the recent international pan-democratic conference held in New York, to discuss ultimate world peace terms and how to make them effective after a program has been adopted.

Bill Bullitt is congenitally prominent. He is smart, for one thing. He arrived on the mundane scene as a member of "one of the first families" of Philadelphia, a very tony place for a hereditary aristocrat to be born into. He also was born into lots of money, without which aristocracy is not worth much.

Additionally Bullitt has a prominent temperament.

Had a Say in World War

Bullitt had as much to say about that ill-fated Ford peace expedition back in World War I as Henry did, though Bill was only a comparative kid then. Bill crossed Germany on his way back to the United States and he took it upon himself to impress the Kaiser's officialdom in transit. Believe me, he impressed them! Unquestionably the chap is valuable at keeping folk snubbed over the nose—if that is what they need.

Back in the United States, as soon as World War I was ended, Bullitt was identified with peace negotiations, young as he was. Next he had various diplomatic missions abroad, and presently he turned up as America's ambassador in Russia.

That especially adapts him to today's situation.

Solid with Russia

Bullitt stands in solid with the Soviet government, and, all around, he is a corking good internationalist.

Naturally, Bill was wished into the United Nations' current service. Bullitt knows his business and he is "persona grata" not only with the democracies' governments, but as far as this is possible, with the Axis outfits, too.

It goes almost without saying that Bullitt is for a Russo-Anglo-American combination—including the Latin-American republics and the little European nations. He does not fail to mention China, either—an omission that Winston Churchill, unkindly made in his celebrated broadcast dealing with post-war relationships.

Axis Hinted In

Bill hints at possibly including the Axis peoples, too. What will happen to them?

Well, says Bill, the United States certainly will not insure or guarantee their slavery. This is almost an offer of liberty to them.

Not all, but perhaps quite a contingent of Germans consider themselves enslaved by the Nazi regime. The Italians, it is a certainty, predominantly think so, too. The Spanish are kept scared. The French are probably more than fifty percent democratic. If they can get away with it, as we are. All that is a foregone conclusion.

Japs Are Greatest Problem

Though a one-time resident in Japan, I do not know what the Japs would do, if given an opportunity, because they are so queer—1,000 times as much so as the Chinese. I do know that the rank-and-file of them disapprove of their government, but it is so much a habit with them that it is impossible to tell how they would react to a promise of freedom. I MIGHT "take."

But as for the United States?

Unless Uncle Sam collaborates with the rest of the democracies (according to Bill Bullitt)—American isolationism is due to follow in short order—or, as soon as this war is ended.

Bill does not want isolationism. What he wants is permanent PEACE.

That is what Bill Bullitt is shooting at.

Single Kidney Can Perform the Work Of Two Successfully, Physician Says

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
Whenever a person is advised by a surgeon that it is necessary to remove one kidney, it is naturally quite a jolt. The three things he wants to know are: first, "Can I live with only one kidney?" second, "Will I shorten my life?" and third, "Will the removal of one kidney handicap me and limit my activity?" My friend, Dr. Herman

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

L. Kretschmer, of Chicago, who has had an enormous experience along these lines, has made a careful study in order to answer these questions accurately.

The answer to the first question, of course, is yes. While I have never been a kidney surgeon and therefore have a somewhat limited experience, I know literally about fifty people who have gone along with only one kidney for years and years. One is a doctor, a great pal of mine, who had this operation nearly twenty years ago. He is handling an active practice and is hale and hearty.

Causes of Removal
Dr. Kretschmer, having gone over his records, has one patient who has gone twenty-four years and eleven months with only one kidney. The oldest patient in his series is seventy-two years old.

How long a person will live with one kidney, and how much limitation of activity will result from the operation, depends to a considerable extent on why the kidney was removed. The common causes are a new growth on a kidney, tuberculosis of a kidney, a pus infection or an injury which crushes the kidney on one side. Naturally the person with a new growth or tuberculosis is in a more serious condition than a person who has had an injury, because the growth or the tuberculosis may recur in one remaining kidney.

One Kidney Adequate
It is possible by modern laboratory methods to make a very exact assessment of the functional ability of the kidney, and by the same taken it is possible to make a functional assessment of one kidney if there is only one. This is done by tests on the chemistry of the blood and other methods too technical to discuss here. Seventy-two per cent of the patients in this series were able to pass satisfactory tests of this nature, showing that the one kidney was doing the work of two and doing it completely as far as the body economy was concerned.

The average length of time which had elapsed between the operation and the period when the report was made was over eight years. So we can say with considerable assurance to patients in this situation that they will certainly live with one kidney, that they will function very well, all things being equal, and that length of life depends somewhat on the original cause of the trouble.

As a matter of fact, nature has been very generous with us about kidney tissue, and we all have about twice as much as we need. At any given time only about one-

C. F. S., Detroit, Mich.—"What is your opinion of whooping cough shots for babies, also diphtheria, smallpox and cold shots?"

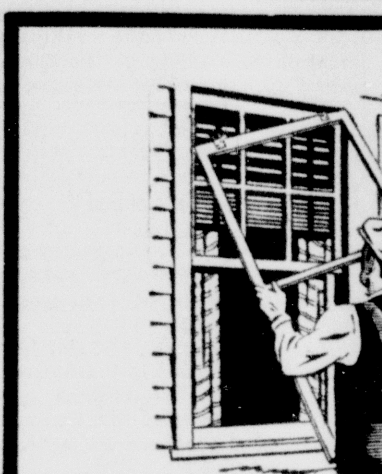

Answer: Whooping cough vaccination is advisable. It prevents whooping cough, or assures a mild attack in about seventy or eighty per cent of cases. Diphtheria and smallpox vaccination are absolutely necessary. They should be given at about the age of six months for smallpox, and two to three years for diphtheria. Cold shots, in my opinion, are not of value.

In the Buffalo Creek Shops of the B & O, there's a man who typifies the spirit of all railroad workers today. His name is Anthony O'Donnell. His job is timekeeper. Despite the handicap of having only one arm, O'Donnell is putting into his work a thoroughness and enthusiasm which can come only of deep, true patriotic fervor.

Many times a day, his thoughts stray to his three sons in uniform—out there, somewhere. He'd like to see those sons . . . but his lips press together with renewed determination, for he knows that it needs the wholehearted efforts of himself and his thousands of co-workers to back up our fighting men and to bring them home soon.

Once in a while a wistful picture of himself in uniform floats through his mind . . . he and his three sons marching together, fighting together for the America they love. "Yes, sir," he told fellow workers recently, "I'd give my right arm, too, to preserve what this country's fighting for!"

The spirit of Anthony O'Donnell is the spirit of American Railroad workers everywhere. Engineers, brakemen, conductors, track walkers . . . men in the signal towers, machinists in the shops, workers in the offices . . . each is putting real sixty-seconds-to-the-minute railroading into the job he was specially trained for, and doing it with Victory as his chief goal. "WANTS THEM TO LAST..."

and did you ever stop to think how easy it is to make your Gas appliances last?

No new Gas appliances can be made. Sales from dealers' stocks are limited to cases of urgent necessity. So it behooves all of us to see to it that present appliances last for the duration . . . that they receive thorough care, cleaning and adjustment. In that way they will see us through without replacements or repairs.

Fortunately, Gas appliances are strong, simple, rugged, built to last indefinitely . . . easy to keep clean and in order. If you stop to think, you'll realize how little trouble you ever have with your Gas range, water heater, refrigerator or room heaters. There is very little about them to get out of order.

Nevertheless, it will pay you to check your Gas appliances and see that they get proper care. They will give better service, cost less for fuel, last much longer. This is one more contribution you can make to winning victory.

HOW TO GET THE MOST FROM YOUR GAS APPLIANCES

Keep your Gas range clean. Clean porcelain finish with a soft, damp cloth—never when the range is hot. Do not use cleaning powder. If boil-overs occur, allow the range to cool and then remove char with a good cleaner or fine steel wool.

Make sure your Gas burners are in proper adjustment. Inner cone should burn blue-green, outer flame dark blue.

Defrost your Electrolux Gas refrigerator whenever the coating of frost on the freezing unit gets 1/4-inch thick.

Don't overload your refrigerator, put hot foods into it, or leave the door open needlessly.

Drain your Gas water heater occasionally to remove sediment.

WESTERNPORT, April 5 — The first meeting of the Baltimore and Ohio Homemakers "Health for Victory Club" will be held Tuesday, April 6, at 7:30 p. m. at the Potomac Light and Power Company's home service room on Ashfield street, Piedmont. Meetings will continue to be held once a month.

They are under the direction of Miss Colleen Collette, home service representative of the Potomac Light and Power Company. The committee is anxious to secure a complete list before the work of painting the names is started.

Names and addresses of those in the service who are serving overseas are being collected by Walter W. Dawson, Oakland, or they may be left at the Republican office.

The names of Floyd Leighton, Jr., and Edward Hinebaugh were selected by the Jaycees in continuing their project of writing to those in the service.

The council wishes to establish a venereal clinic in Moorefield; it seeks to support a project to supply entertainment and recreational facilities for high school youth during the summer months and throughout the ensuing year in the high school gym; and it wants to bring about a campaign to clean up the streets, alleys, vacant lots and other eyesores of the community.

Most organizations contacted thus far by representatives, which act as liaison agents between their own groups and the council, have reported a favorable reaction to all three projects.

There is a serious amount of venereal disease and treatment through a clinic here would greatly aid in its control. The nearest clinic now is at Petersburg.

One official reports there is a town ordinance "with teeth in it," which would force property owners to clean up and keep clean. It has fallen into disuse and has been accumulating dust for many years, but if the various members of the Inter-Civic Council vote in favor of the project, it will be brought out and enforced.

The BLIND MAN'S SECRET

by RICHARD HOUGHTON

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Everyone thought Agatha Brown was an old maid, but she had been secretly married for 25 years to Prof. Otto Halder of Western college. She had left him in World War I because she learned he was a traitor.

The girl she called her niece, Clementine, was really their daughter. Not even Clementine knew it.

Now, in World War II, Agatha discovers the professor is planning to sell another of his inventions, a radio-controlled aerial torpedo, to the enemy. Halder is found slain, Estelle Blossom, a student who claims she was engaged to marry the professor, accuses Clementine of the crime and the police interview the woman in the hall outside the professor's dormitory room. Agatha goes to telephone, is taken prisoner in the dark by an unseen man and forced to accompany him to the basement.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

Why I brought you here, you are going to tell me where it is. She shrank away from him. His hot breath was close to her. She stumbled and would have fallen because her arms were tied helplessly to her sides, had not one of the pillars supporting the floor above been close behind her. She leaned against it, heart pounding wildly.

"What amazes me," said the man, "is how you killed him in that locked room—how you concealed yourself there until midnight—and how you escaped without undoing the bolts."

She breathed deeply. She had not been leaving the room! He did not know she had carried the suitcase away with her. Perhaps he did not know she had even been near Clementine's room.

"You are very clever," she told him, "but not as clever as I thought. I imagined your government would have chosen a better man for such a job as this—instead of merely a woman torturer."

He breathed heavily, and said something in a foreign language. She knew from the force he put into it that it was a curse.

Then he moved slowly away from her and she heard him fumbling with some heavy objects on a table. "You know too much to be innocent," he said. "You were in love with Professor Halder years ago, according to records of our agents. If you did not kill him tonight, then you were in league with him. In either case, you must talk!"

The man was close in front of her again. Agatha ceased to strain at the bonds which held her arms at her sides. She was afraid he might hear what she was doing. She could see him faintly now, a black bulk silhouetted against the dim light from the tiny grid window.

One of his hands touched her left shoulder, then clamped with fingers of steel. She almost went sick with pain.

"It is senseless to waste more time," he threatened her. "How would you like a foot bath of acid, eh? There is an abundance of it in the laboratory. Nitric acid. It will eat through the soles of your feet, through your tender ankles like a stocking of fire!"

"You're not human!"

"On the contrary, I am very human. I would gladly let you go—free."

"If I tell you where the radio tube is hidden?"

"Exactly."

"I don't believe that. You would be afraid I could identify you."

He laughed. "I am a man of many faces. You would be astonished if I turned on the electric light. You might recognize me as any one of a dozen men you have seen and trusted."

"I will never trust any man any more!"

"What a pleasant outlook. Afraid to confide in anyone. Knowing not where to turn for help. However, perhaps that is better than the fate I have in store for you. I am going upstairs for the acid. Think it over while you amuse yourself trying to untie those knots. They cannot be undone!"

Agatha gasped. Did the man have cat's eyes?

She heard him cross the room. The sound of footsteps ascending told her he was climbing the steep stairway. The trapdoor opened softly. He was gone.

Almost immediately a voice greeted her from out of the dark. "Miss Brown!"

A face was pressed against the ventilator.

"Miss Brown, can you hear me?"

"Yes! Yes! Oh, whoever you are, help me!"

"Of course. That's what I'm here for. How do I get in there?"

"The first room to the left at the foot of the east stairway. There's a trapdoor in the floor, probably concealed under a desk—or maybe left open now. Better strike a match."

"I'll need no match to find it. Is the cellar dark?"

"Black as pitch!"

"Good! Don't lose your nerve. I'll be right with you."

His head disappeared and his legs moved past the window. She saw that the ventilator was close to the ground. He must have been on hands and knees when he talked to her. How had he happened to be there? There had been no light to attract him.

She remembered that her would-be rescuer said he would not need a match. And he asked if the cellar was dark. Couldn't he see that it was dark? Couldn't he see—

"Oh!" she gasped. "What have I done? He's the blind boy!"

She struggled with the ropes. She must warn him—must get to the ladder and call up to him.

"Why didn't I tell him to call the police? He'll be murdered!"

The ladder creaked. Already someone was descending through the trap door into her prison.

New Share-Car Plan To Be Given Test

BALTIMORE, April 5 (AP)—Several dozen Baltimore motorists are going to test a new share-the-car plan.

The Automobile Club of Maryland, sponsor of the plan, said its purpose is to relieve the public transportation system by offering rides to those who would take buses or trolley.

Two twelve by five inch cards, printed in red, which ask: "Going my way? 59¢—?" will be displayed for a two-week trial by volunteer motorists, the club announced. One of the cards will show the driver's business destination and the other his home address. Club Director J. Hugh Taylor, said.

Bela Lugosi Is Now No. 1 Horror Man

With Boris Karloff confining his talents to stage work, the A-1 horror man of the films is now Bela Lugosi, whose most recent release "Bewitched at Midnight" will be shown at the Embassy theater today and tomorrow.

Lugosi and Karloff have been co-starring in several successful horror tales on the screen, and have long held top rating in this field. In his latest Lugosi essays a dual role, said to be one of his most spine-tingling accomplishments.

Bette Davis Stars In "Now, Voyager"

Currently showing at the Garden theater is "Now, Voyager," presenting Bette Davis in one of her few sympathetic roles. "Journey into Fear" Stars Cotten, del Rio

Rarely does any screen offering reach or maintain such a degree of suspense as Orson Welles' newest film, "Journey into Fear," which opened yesterday at the Liberty theater with Joseph Cotten and Dolores del Rio starred and Welles playing a subordinate but important role.

The plot revolves about the efforts of an American engineer to escape the closing net of the Ger-apo in Southeastern Europe. Sent to Turkey to make a survey of its navy preparatory to modernizing its guns, the American finishes his job only to learn that the Nazis have no intention of letting him return to the United States alive with his valuable data.

Tri-State Conference To Operate; LaSalle Tossers Begin Workouts

Loop Season Will Open Latter Part of Month; Losses to Armed Services Hurt Explorers

The Tri-State Interscholastic baseball conference will be re-organized for the 1943 campaign with a possibility that the loop may be expanded to six schools, it was announced last night by Walter L. Bowers, conference president.

Bowers said that the five schools which composed the circuit last season—Allegany, Port Hill and LaSalle, of Cumberland; Hyndman (Pa.) high and Paw Paw (W. Va.) high—are ready to go. The conference president also said that Beall High, of Frostburg, which dropped out of the loop last spring, may come back into the fold.

Enough gasoline to carry the quads to and from games has been granted by the local rationing board, Bowers said, removing the last obstacle in the way of re-organizing the circuit.

Bowers said that he plans to get in contact with the schools in the conference to determine if a meeting will be necessary. Tentative plans call for following last year's schedule, provided Beall doesn't enter a team, and using the 1941 card if the Frostburg school decides to become a contender.

Will Open This Month

The season opened last spring on the last Friday in April and if five teams again compose the loop, then the campaign will probably get under way on April 30. However, if Beall comes in, then the season may be opened a week earlier.

The local rationing board's ruling will give Allegany, Port Hill and LaSalle a means of transportation. Hyndman and Paw Paw also have been assured enough of gasoline to get their squads to and from contests.

Bowers said he intends to find out today whether Beall will be represented in the conference.

Whirlaway Tops Field for Dixie 'Cap at Pimlico

Track Will Open April 16,
Five Days Earlier than Expected

BALTIMORE, April 5 (AP)—Whirlaway, greatest money winner of all time, headed a field of thirty-two topnotchers announced today for the $20,000 Dixie Handicap, May 1, one of the high spots of Pimlico's spring "street car meeting."

At the same time, the Maryland Jockey Club reported approval of an additional five days of horse racing by the State racing commission, and a decision to start five days earlier—April 16. The meet, which was scheduled for a fifteen-day run beginning April 22, will wind up May 8 with the renewal of the Prekness.

Receipts from the extra days will go to war relief. Calumet Farms' Whirlaway, who will be seeking his second straight victory in the mile and three-sixteenths battle, is one of three Dixie money winners from last year again nominated. It may be the first start of the season for the long-lashed beauty, unless he runs at Churchill Downs.

Riverland Nominated

Competing against Whirlly in this year's Dixie—to be run the same day as the Kentucky Derby, which is for three-year-olds—will be Mrs. Parker Corning's Attention, and Charles S. Howard's Miodlan. W. L. Brann's Challeon, other members of the quartet which participated in the finish thriller last year, has been retired.

In the 1942 race, Whirlaway came charging through the stretch to overhaul and defeat Attention, Miodlan and Challeon in that order. Also nominated for this year's Dixie is Riverland, conqueror of Whirlaway on one occasion last fall, in the Riggs Handicap.

In addition, such performers as Belair Stud's Fenelon, Mrs. Ray Peinberg's Fireborn, Arnold Hanger's Dit, T. H. Heard's Boysy, A. J. Sackett's Tola Rose, the Valinda Farm pair of rounders and Valinda Orphan and Woodvale Farm's Our Boots have been named.

Weights for the Dixie are to be announced by Racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan on Thursday, April 15, the day prior to Pimlico's opening.

Nominees Listed

The complete list of nominations: Mrs. E. G. Augustus's Trewayn, H. M. Babylon's Abbe Pierre, Belair Stud's Apache and Fenelon, John A. Bells Dark Discovery, Binglin Stock Farm's Don Bingo, W. E. Boeing's Welcome Pass, Calumet Farm's Whirlaway, Mrs. Parker Corning's Attention.

Mrs. Ray Peinberg's, Foxcatcher Farms' Star Beacon, Greentree Stable's Corydon and Devil Diver, Arnold Hanger's Dit, Hal Price Headley's Anticlimax and Equinox, T. H. Heard's Boysy, William Helis's Moscow 2nd, C. S. Howard's Miodlan.

Louisiana Marm's Riverland, L. B. Mayer's Thumbs Up, Mrs. D. B. Miller's Incoming, Charles E. Nelson's Third Covey, J. M. Roebing's Lochinvar, A. J. Sackett's Tola Rose, Valinda Farm's Rounders and Valinda Orphan, A. G. Vanderbilt's Rascal, Mrs. E. duPont Weir's Hippocampus, Joseph E. Widener's Nip-sickle and Wazak, and Woodvale Farm's Our Boots.

World Champions Well
Fixed for Manpower--
Adams Only Newcomer

By OSCAR KAHAN
CAIRO, Ill., April 5 (AP)—Although most major league teams are still experimenting with their lineups, the St. Louis Cardinals are in such excellent shape for manpower that it's possible today to predict their likely batting order.

Barring the unexpected—or the draft—indications are that the world champions will open the National League season with a team made up almost entirely of last year's players. No other club in either circuit can boast of a similar outlook.

Here's the way, it appears, that the Cardinals will go to bat against the Cincinnati Reds April 21:

Jimmy Brown, 2b
Johnny Hopp, 1b
Stan Musial, cf
Walter Cooper, c
George Kuroski, 3b
Buster Adams, cf
Mark Marlon, ss
Harry Walker, rf
Morton Cooper, p

This is virtually the lineup used by Manager Billy Southworth in his intra-squad games, and there's only one name in the list new to the Cardinals—Adams, the speedy outfielder who batted .309 for Sacramento. He's a long-ball hitter of the type Southworth likes in the sixth slot of his batting order.

Walker was with the Cardinals last season and saw frequent service as a centerfield substitute for Terry Moore, hanging up a creditable average of .314. He's fleet footed, fitting in well with the team's dependence on speed in his offense.

Back of this probable starting lineup, Southworth has plenty of reserves with a capable man or two for every position. That, again, is more than any other team manager can say, and some of them would be saying thanks if they could put uniforms on the Cardinals' second-stringers.

These reserves include Ray Sanders, who may yet take Hopp's first-base job, forcing Johnny to seek an outfield berth. Either George Fallon or Lou Klein will succeed Brown at second, if the peppery Cardinal captain goes into military service. Klein normally is a shortstop and could fill in for Marlon, if necessary.

14 Pitchers on Roster

Debs Garmis, one-time National League batting champion, can play third base as well as the outfield. Along with the possible addition of Hopp, the Cardinals also have Coaker Triplett, Frank Demaree and Dain Clay as outfield candidates. Their other catchers are Ken O'Dea, Jerry Bumeister and Sam Naron.

The Cardinals have fourteen pitchers on their roster but Murry Dickson has been reclassified 1-A and has not reported at spring training camp. Howard Pollock also is 1-A but has appealed on the ground of unusual dependency—a mother and sister as well as wife and child. Howard Krist is a likely 1-A.

Still the pitching staff should be more than adequate with Morton Cooper, Harry Gumbert, Ernie White and Max Lanier as a "big four," supported by a promising crop of rookies.

With so much manpower, it seems that wholesale drafting of fathers will be the only thing to stop the Cardinals from repeating as world champions.

Waco Gets Team Dumped in Lap

WACO, Tex., April 5 (AP)—Waco was in professional baseball five times before giving it up and now a ball club that could go in most any kind of company has been dumped into its lap—all free, too.

Lt. George R. Tebbetts—Birdie to baseball fans—is responsible for it. The former Detroit catcher entered the army air forces and immediately was assigned to recruiting.

Naturally he went after ball players and the guy did a job big league scouts would be proud of. Tibbetts, who earned his bars at the Air Forces Officer Candidate school in Miami, Fla., is back at the Waco Army Flying School in physical training office.

The team Birdie is readying for the opening game April 18 against a semi-pro outfit has such fellows as Sid Hudson and Bruce Campbell of Washington; Walter (Hoot) Evers, who might have been with Detroit this season had he not joined the army (he was a star with Beaumont in 1942); Nick Popovich, property of the White Sox; Jake Berger, Buffalo; Mike Popovich, Detroit; and Lou Batterson, formerly of the Yankees.

Waco was in the Texas League three times and twice took a fling at Class D but this army club may be the best it ever has had.

American League To Have Only 10 Umps Available

Two Less than 1942--Loop
Relatively Free of Draft
Worries

CHICAGO, April 5 (AP)—The poor umpire, who works two to four hours a day seven days a week unless it rains or the teams have a day off will be doubly on his guard against injuries or sickness in the American League this season, for there will be only ten arbiters in uniform instead of the twelve who took the field last year.

The league is relatively free of military draft worries in this department, however, for only one umpire, Ernest Stewart, is under the 38-year-old mark and he has two children.

Not a New Low

Ten men will be by no means a low for umpiring staffs, for several years ago the junior circuit had only eight men available. Last year's twelve is a high point.

Through non-draft causes the league has lost three of last year's starters. Harry Geisel and John Quinn have resigned and Steve Basil is on the voluntarily retired list. The only war casualty is Art Passarella, who goes in the Army April 19.

To build up its staff the American circuit acquired two men from the American Association at the close of last season—Charles Berry, who worked the last month of the major league season and made a fine impression, and Hal J. Weaver, who was taken on option but not used in 1942.

Started Improving in '35

Weaver spent the last five years in the association after previous duty in the Bi-State and International Leagues. Forty-two years old, he played first base in the minors for more than a decade, did some scouting for the Brooklyn Dodgers for a couple of years, and then started umpiring in 1935.

With the duties of Umpire-in-Chief Thomas H. Connolly falling into the administrative line only, holdovers from the 1942 opening-day staff are William A. McGowan, William Summers, Calvin Hubbard, William T. Grieve, Edwin A. Rommel, Joseph Rue, George Pipgras and Stewart.

Kiwanians Will Roll For Championship Next Monday Night

The championship of the Kiwanis Bowling League will be decided in a three game match on the Club alleys next Monday night when the Wilsons, winners of the first half championship, and the Barnes, last half winners, clash at 7:30 o'clock.

A Florian Wilson is captain of the Wilsons and Robert Barnes is the captain of the second half winners. The losing team will entertain the winners at a dinner on a date to be announced later.

MONTGOMERY KAYOES ALVAREZ IN FOURTH

PHILADELPHIA, April 5 (AP)—Bob Montgomery, Philadelphia's No. 1 lightweight contender, tuned up for his title bout next month with Beau Jack, by knocking out Roman Alvarez, New York, in twenty-seven seconds of the fourth round before 10,000 at the Arena tonight.

The end came unexpected as the two came out for the fourth round of the scheduled ten-rounder. In close, Montgomery whipped over a left hook that jarred the 21-year-old native of Denver. Montgomery promptly let go a vicious right that landed flush on the jaw. Alvarez fell flat on his back and never stirred as Referee Matt Adgie tolled off the count.

Montgomery, a topheavy 7 to 1 favorite, weighed 137 pounds to 135½ for Alvarez.

Whitney Martin Gives Donelli Recommendation

Writer Tells Where a Good Football Coach Can Be Found

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK, April 5 (AP)—If any school is looking for a top row football coach, there's one running around as loose as a zoot suit whom we'd recommend. Even guarantee.

He's Buff Donelli, who has just had Duquesne moved out from under him, leaving him up there pawing the air and looking for a nice spot to land.

He's a smart, stocky gent, is Donelli. He played considerable football in his time, and is a Ted Williams at soccer. Not meaning that Ted Williams was always booting them. We just mean Buff is tops at that sport.

His sports participation has left its marks. His nose meanders aimlessly over his mug so that if he followed it he'd never find his way back. His ears are a little the worse for wear, and he talks out of the corner of his mouth in that "all right, copper, you asked for it—bang, bang" style of radio gangsters.

But he's a real gent, and a whale of a football coach, as his record shows. A couple of years ago he had that undefeated, untied and uninvited team which may not have been the best in the country, but which could have made the best prove it was the best.

He's a keen student of the game, and his teams play a who's-got-the-ball system which drives opponents daffy, and much of this hocus-pocus was invited by Buff himself.

This may sound like a free ad for Donelli, and maybe it is. But with the coach situation as it is, we thought it would be in good taste to tell where a good one might be found. We aren't a guy to refuse to tell a fellow where he can get butter just because we don't need any ourselves at the time.

We haven't seen Mort Cooper throw since the last World Series, and not too much then, but we understand the big Card chucker is having his troubles because of injuries suffered in a fall, and that, because of a lame knee, he can't use his usual throwing motion.

Which sounds like saying a guy can't kick a football because he has a sprained finger, but it's the truth, nevertheless, as a pitcher throws practically with his whole body and when one part is jammed-up it spoils the synchronization of the whole.

Cooper, removing a boy's kite from a wire on top of a house tumbled from a ladder and landed with his back on a top another boy was spinning which really is getting to the top the hard way, at that.

Anyway, Cooper suffered a fracture of a vertebrae wing in the sacro-iliac region, but he says that his knee hurts worse than his back. As a result he is pitching without his old rhythm, a practice which could have very disastrous results.

After Dizzy Dean suffered a toe fracture in the 1937 All-Star game he tried to throw with an unnatural motion. He developed arm, or shoulder, trouble and never was the same again.

Al Schacht, the wise clown, predicted Dizzy never would recover even while Diz was trying to come back.

"He's got the same thing I had," Al explained sagely, "and you don't get over that. It's up in the shoulder, not in the arm where the trouble might be whittled away. Mark my words, he's through." Dizzy was.

We hope Cooper doesn't follow Dean's pattern. For that matter, how could anybody? Dizzy was dizzy, and not so dizzy, at that.

EXHIBITION BASEBALL

Yankees Win, 7-2

PORT HANCOCK, N. J., April 5 (AP)—With Jim Turner, Lefty Russo and Ernie Bonham combining to pitch six-hit ball, the New York Yankees whipped the Port Hancock nine, 7 to 2, for their second victory in three exhibition baseball games.

Johnny Lindell, the Yanks' batting star in their first two games against Newark, failed to get a hit off four Soldier hurlers. The only extra blow off the Yankee bats was a double by Joe Gordon in the seventh when the American League champs put together three of their nine hits with an error and base on balls to count three times.

The same combination of hits, walks and errors gave the Yanks their first three tallies in the opening frame. The seventh run, scored in the ninth, was a gift, coming on a base on balls, a wild pitch and two infield outs. Russo yielded both of the Soldiers' runs.

Red Sox Blank Flock

BALTIMORE, April 5 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox, of the American League, took the first of a three-game series from the Baltimore International League club today by a score of 8 to 0.

It was the Orioles' second consecutive shutout in exhibition ball. The Sox gathered fourteen hits off Roland Van Slate and Elmer Burkart, while Chase, Terry and Brown allowed the locals only four, all singles. The Sox saved their biggest wallop for the ninth inning when they produced five hits good for five runs.

Pirates Stage "Riot"

MUNCIE, Ind., April 5 (AP)—Mayor John C. Hampton, of Muncie, was almost swept off his feet today when the Pirates put on a sham riot just before the finish of a five-inning camp game, in which the Rockies beat the Regulars 2 to 1.

The players pretended to flare up when Hampton, acting as chief umpire, called out Johnny Barrett on strikes. They dashed to the astonished mayor, seized him and almost had the breath hugged out of him before he caught on to the fun.

Max Butcher and Bill Brandt held the Regulars to four hits, one a double by Bob Elliott, Bob Klingler hurled three hitless innings against the Yankigans but Xavier Rescigno, who won twenty-three and lost six last year with Albany, was touched for singles by John Wyrstek and Ripper Collins and a double by Bill Baker, to score their two runs.

Coaches Double Duties

Orin E. Babel, Hollingsberry and Jack Friel, varsity football and basketball coaches, respectively, have been coaching track and baseball at Washington State college.

Senators Score, 10-4

NORFOLK, Va., April 5 (AP)—The Washington Senators, of the American League, completed a five-day stay here today by mauling the Norfolk Naval Air Station, 10-4. The Senators took advantage of the wildness of Emil Lochbaum, Air Station righthander, to score three times in the second frame and three more runs in the fifth. Ellis Clary, Washington third baseman, cracked a pair of doubles to lead the Senator batters.

Navy Tossers Trim Delaware, 8 to 3

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 5 (AP)—Hitting in the pinches, combined with four errors, proved fatal to the University of Delaware nine today as the Navy emerged on the top side of an 8-3 victory.

Middle Twirler Paul Burdett held the Bluehearts in check by allowing only two hits, one in the third by Perry Burkett which accounted for his team's long earned run, and another in the ninth, a double by Pleasant Poole.

Lanny Zech's hitting in the opening game Saturday caused Max Bishop to move him up one position in the batting order, and the peppy second baseman came through today with three hits to show his appreciation.

With the exception of two Navy hits in the fifth, things were kind of quiet as both pitchers bore down, but the Tars came to life in the eighth and sent three more markers across the platter.

Neither of the pitchers were up to par. Both were somewhat wild and very liberal in issuing bases on balls.

Three Giants Get Draft Board Notices

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 5 (AP)—Three members of the New York Giants today received notice from their local draft boards to report tomorrow for preliminary physical examination. They are Ray Berres, catcher; Sid Gordon, third baseman and Harry Feldman, pitcher. All are currently classified in 3-A.

Berres, who was with the Giants last season, is the only one of the trio who is childless. The children of Gordon and Feldman were born last year. Gordon, who was with Jersey City during 1942, hit 300 with the Little Giants and has been regarded a certainty to share third base duties this year with Dick Bartell.

Rail and Industrial Stocks Hit Peaks for First Six Years

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP) — Rail and industrial stocks hit peaks for the first six years in today's market as buyers unleashed the heaviest buying orders in fifteen months.

Brokers found a combination of reasons for the strong recovery move which got under way about a year ago and, with few interruptions, has continued, ever since. Mainly, credit was given to the bullish war news and the revival of the speculative and investment urge predicated on sharply expanding idle funds. Efforts to hedge against threatened inflation still were viewed as a factor.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks today rose 6 of a point to 49.6, highest since May 9, 1940. The 15-rail composite touched its best level since October, 1937, with a jump of 1.1 points to 26.2. The market was one of the broadest in some time, 987 individual issues being traded. Of these 703 were up, 131 down and 153 unchanged. Transfers totaled 2,647,920 shares, highest since Dec. 29, 1941. They compared with 1,659,140 last Friday. Well in front were Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Rolling Mill, Chrysler, Public Service of N. J., Western Union, U. S. Rubber, Sears, Roebuck, Oliver Farm, Anaconda, Alaska Juneau, du Pont, Atlantic Gulf & West Indies, Pepsi-Cola, Distillers Corp. and American Airlines.

Ahead in the curb were Electric Bond & Share, Creole Petroleum, American Gas, Lake Shore, Midvale, Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Pioneer Gold. The aggregate here was 475.895 shares versus 345,310 in the preceding full session.

Railroad bonds advanced to new high levels since 1937 in active dealings in today's market. Utilities shared generously in the upturn and other domestic groups maintained a steady trend.

U. S. Governments strengthened late in the session on small sales. Treasury 2½'s of '60-55 advanced 18-32 of a point to 109.29 and the 2½'s of '53-49 gained 5-32 to 106.11. Dealers reported activity in this field was concentrated on plans for the second war loan drive scheduled to start next Monday.

Total sales of $19,235,000 compared with $15,933,000 last Friday.

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP) — The position of the treasury April 2: Receipts $44,648,082.61; expenditures $25,434,190.68; net balance $19,213,891.93; working balance included $2,986,808.88; customs receipts for month $2,428,857.29; receipts fiscal year (July 1) $14,792.37; expenditures fiscal year $25,510,557.94; excess of expenditures $10,718,220.32; total debt $119,930,000,571.04; increase over previous day $13,875,392.65; gold assets $22,575,740,448.23.

Celanese Employees Give City U. S. Flag

Employees of the C. A. block at the Celanese plant, yesterday presented the City of Cumberland a large United States flag. William J. Kelly made the presentation.

The flag was purchased for use at the plant, but it has not been possible to find a flag staff large enough to fly it, so the employees decided to give it to the city to be displayed in the city hall rotunda.

Three Forest Fires Burn over 55 Acres

High Wind Makes Work of Fire Wardens Extremely Difficult

High winds fanned three forest fires yesterday in Allegheny county but late last night they had been brought "under control," according to Urner G. Wigfield, district fire warden.

The largest fire was on top of Haystack mountain, opposite the Celanese plant. Two crews fought the blaze which burned over thirty acres of timberland. No cause could be ascertained as to how the fire started, Wigfield said.

A fire on Piney mountain, near Corriagville, destroyed twenty acres before it was brought under control. It could not be determined how the blaze started.

The high wind at the Frostburg city dump started a fire nearby and five acres on Big Savage mountain were burned, Wigfield said. Rubbish was being burned at the dump and sparks from the blaze ignited timber on the mountain, he added.

Constitution Park Pool May Not Be Opened This Year

Report Indicates Improvements Needed To Get Permit from State

Due to inadequate circulation of water in the swimming pool at Constitution Park, it is reported to be impossible to keep the pool in a safe condition from a bacteriological standpoint, the city council was informed yesterday. Unless the condition can be remedied, it was indicated the pool will not be opened this year.

A report was made on the pool by Water Commissioner William J. Edwards, Dr. Theodore Shrop, city health officer and Charles J. Bruce, water works superintendent. The report says in part:

"The Bureau of Sanitary Engineering of the State health department has not and will not issue a permit for the pool as long as the physical conditions and construction remain as at present."

The report also comments on use of water by the Celanese Corporation of America. It is contended that the plant is willing to reduce the amount of water it uses, by about one million gallons daily. If this is done, the report indicates there will be sufficient water to operate the pool, if a permit can be obtained. Attention is also called to the possibility that increased use of water by Victory gardeners might also cause a shortage of water in the city and prohibit opening the pool.

Water consumption for the week ending Sunday totaled 75,000,000 gallons of a daily average of 10,714,000 gallons compared with 7,888,000 gallons daily for the same period last year.

Lake Gordon is two inches above the crest and Lake Koon is three feet below.

Council instructed the street commissioner to have Charles F. Heller, engaged in sewer cleaning work, make a monthly report on his work. Commissioner of Finance William E. McDonald suggested that the report be made.

Monthly Reports

Reports filed with council for March included the following collections:

Tax office, $57,119.84, of which $33,018.80 was for water rent; general license, $5,500; movie taxes, $1,252; weights, $466.77; Lake Gordon, $75; water office, $112.50, and police fines, $518.

Police reported 244 arrests and 66 fire calls.

Balances are: General, $9,989.13; water operating, $93,586.77; general improvement bond, $26,144.14; paying bond, $274.72, and sewer bonds, $194, $6,488.07.

Permits for New Dwellings Plunge To All-Time Low

Five Issued in Past Year Lowest for Cumberland in 42 Years

An all-time low for total permits issued for the construction of new dwellings has been established for the fiscal year ending March 31, it was announced yesterday by the city engineer's office.

Only five permits for the erection of new houses in Cumberland was issued during the twelve months' period, April 1, 1942 to March 31, 1943.

Previous Low Was Seven

Records on file at the city engineer's office dating back to 1901 show that the previous low was seven permits issued for the construction of new houses during the fiscal year April 1, 1932 to March 31, 1933.

Authorization to construct dwelling houses must now be obtained from the War Production Board.

City hall records show that during the first World War, the fiscal year, April 1, 1917 to March 31, 1918, thirty-seven permits for the construction of new dwellings were issued in Cumberland.

Boom Noted in 1919-20

The post-war period of 1919-20, however, was marked by a building boom during which time a total of 470 permits were issued and expenditures reached an all-time high of $4,476,553.60. These figures include all types of building permits.

Jaycee Speaker Believes Public Expects Long War

Ralph Race Tells Young Civic Group of Problems That Lie Ahead

Expressing the opinion that most people are reconciled to the fact that the country faces a long and hard war, Ralph Race, of Frostburg, former state president of the junior association of commerce addressed the local Jaycees at their monthly dinner meeting last night in Central Y.M.C.A.

Talking about the present and future tasks of the organization, as their contribution to the country, Race suggested several questions that "might be food for thought now."

"The post war problems," he said, will include international questions, national issues and local situations, which must be solved on a give and take ideal. Some of the issues which must be faced, and faced squarely he suggested, "are questions of race eligibility, industrial changes and adjustments, liquidation of an enormous debt, emigration, and a permanent and fair solution of labor-management problems." He offered these as the foremost issues which will come directly at the end of the war.

Should Know Facts

At the present time, the speaker ventured, the American people are not being given the facts about the war. He expressed the opinion that Americans are misjudged by many officials who seem to think the American people cannot accept reports of military losses, disappointments, hardships and setbacks. He stated that failure to make accurate and complete reports to the public leads to dissatisfaction, distrust and ultimately to hatred.

"Out of the war, there will doubtless come a large group of reactionaries," he said.

Council Decides Police Should Regulate Parking

Refuses To Make New Laws until Present Ones Are Enforced

The mayor and city council yesterday decided that proper enforcement of present ordinances regulating downtown parking would be more desirable than adopting new ordinances as suggested by Police and Fire Commissioner James Orr.

Commissioner Orr wanted an ordinance passed which would prohibit parking, except for loading and unloading, on North Liberty street. He explained that fire trucks have difficulty getting down the street when answering calls.

Last week, when an engine from Central responded to a huge grass fire in Mapleside, the truck collided with a parked delivery truck and damaged the right rear fender of the fire engine. The driver said machines were parked on both sides of the street and the lane was too narrow for him to get through. He went through anyway and scraped and dented the fender.

City Solicitor Charles Z. Heskett mentioned that if the police cannot enforce a present ordinance which permits parking on one side of the street, an ordinance prohibiting parking on both sides would be twice as difficult to enforce. He suggested that police enforce existing laws and that council refrain from making new and needless ones. He also suggested that firemen drive more carefully when answering alarms.

Another attempt to have council pass an ordinance was shelved after City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer proposed an ordinance prohibiting trespassing on Victory gardens. Heskett explained that there is a law which prohibits trespassing if a sign is posted.

Rizer said he would have signs prepared and planters of Victory gardens could obtain them for cost price at his office.

Men Will Assist In WAAC Campaign

Three Enlistment Appeals Scheduled in Local Theatres

Speaking to the women, for the women and about the women, three local men will take the stage in three theatres tonight in an effort to make the Cumberland recruiting from more WAAC consensuous.

Arthur Gibson, at the Strand Harold R. Fletcher, at the Liberty, and C. Athey Murray, at the Maryland, will give short talks preceding the 9 o'clock shows in an appeal for volunteer enlistments in the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps. These talks, arranged by Robert Kaplan, are a feature of the local observance of WAAC week which is supposed to result in recruiting fifty WAACs from the Allegheny county district.

Through the efforts of Mrs. John Findlay, a room at 105 Baltimore street has been obtained for use as a recruiting sub-station. Civilian volunteers will serve there to provide prospective recruits with application blanks and additional information.

So far, the times at which the sub-station will be open are Thursday from 2 to 5 p. m. and Saturday from 7 to 9 p. m. According to Sgt. Clarence Biehn, local army recruiting officer, it is quite possible that the sub-station will be open every evening and definite announcement will be made to that effect.

Sgt. Biehn stated that he received six applications from WAAC prospects today and gave one aptitude test.

Council To Urge Veto of Pension Bill for Firemen

Measure for Police Fund Also Passed by Assembly Is Satisfactory

Governor Herbert R. O'Connor will be asked to veto the firemen's pension bill, passed at the recent session of the General Assembly.

The mayor and city council here yesterday, at the suggestion of Police and Fire Commissioner James Orr, decided to make the request of the governor, because of the difference of the contributions from the firemen and the city.

The bill provides that each fireman will contribute three per cent of his monthly salary to the fund, but the city must contribute seven per cent of the firemen's total pay each month.

Under existing law, firemen and the city each pay three per cent to the fund.

A bill was also passed by the General Assembly providing pensions for the policemen. With the city and each officer contributing five per cent. This bill was sponsored by the city.

Charles Z. Heskett, city solicitor said the firemen's pension fund is in fairly good shape but the police fund needs to be boosted.

March War Bond Sale Tops Quota By 29 per Cent

$258,564 Worth of Series E Bonds Purchased, Brown Announces

Allegheny county exceeded its quota by twenty-nine per cent in the sale of Series E United States War Savings Bonds during the month of March, it was announced yesterday by Forrest Brown, chairman of the Allegheny County War Savings Staff.

The March quota for Allegheny county was $200,000 and after all returns were in state headquarters advised Brown that the sale of bonds totaled $258,564, issue price.

Brown admitted that he and other members of the Allegheny County War Savings Staff were apprehensive about the sale of bonds during the month of March because of the fact that many persons would be more concerned about paying all or part of their federal income tax by March 15.

"The showing last month was remarkable and Allegheny countians must be congratulated," Brown declared.

Allegheny county has been purchasing on the average of a quarter of a million dollars worth of war savings bonds and stamps since the monthly campaigns were inaugurated.

Brown expressed optimism over the forthcoming Victory Loan Campaign which will be launched throughout the United States on April 12. The national goal set by the Treasury department is thirteen billion dollars and Brown, who also is a member of the Victory Loan Committee, is hopeful that Allegheny county will go "over the top."

Unity Conference Supports Veto of Bankhead Bill

The Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference went on record last night as supporting President Roosevelt's veto of the Bankhead bill recently. A telegram has been sent to the president notifying him of the conference's support.

In addition, telegrams have been sent to Senator Millard Tydings, Senator George Radcliffe and Rep. J. Glenn Beall in which they are asked to uphold the president's veto in the event a move is made to override his action.

The conference, which is comprised of representatives of the Railroad brotherhoods, AF of L, CIO and independent unions, holds that the bill is inflationary and the veto justified, according to W. Henry Frazier, secretary.

The conference has scheduled a meeting for May 2 at which time all interested groups are invited to attend. The purpose of the session is to combat inflation in any form. Civic groups, the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, all unions and other organizations have been invited.

Charles E. Stutzman, conference chairman, declares that inflation created havoc in many countries after the last war and says the conference is not satisfied with control steps taken in this country so far. Drastic action is urged.

The May meeting will include a discussion of the following points: Agriculture—control of prices and intelligent shifting of farm labor; taxes—plugging of loopholes; price control—overall system of rationing, ceiling for all goods and complete system of grading; wage and salary stabilization—limiting incomes to $25,000, stabilization, but not freezing of wages; war bond purchases—buying of bonds to win war and prevent inflation.

The conference is urging a national legislative alliance among the AF of L, CIO, Railroad Brotherhoods, and the Farmers' Union.

HONORED POSTHUMOUSLY—Lieut. Comdr. Lee S. Pancake, United States Navy, husband of Mrs. Sara S. Pancake, 315 Greene street, was posthumously awarded the Navy Cross and the Military Order of the Purple Heart for distinguished service during action against Japanese forces off Santa Cruz island Oct. 26, 1942. He was killed while spotting Japanese aircraft in an attack against the American task force.

Appointment of Earl L. Sills as chief warden of Zone No. 3 and Clarence Nicholson as chief warden of Zone No. 5 and the promotion of Richard "Dick" Boyle as assistant to the chief air raid warden of Allegheny county was announced last evening by Dr. Robert W. Work, civilian defense director of Allegheny county, at a meeting of air raid wardens in city hall.

Sills replaces Boyle, who formerly was chief warden in Zone No. 3 and Nicholson fills the vacancy in Zone No. 5 created by the resignation of Ralph Lindamood, who has moved from the city to engage in other work.

Under the changes announced last evening, Boyle becomes second in command to Herman L. Myers, who also is assistant to the chief air raid warden, W. Earl Brooks.

Outlines Training

Dr. Work explained that a unified training program will soon be inaugurated for wardens of all zones and that a canvass for new wardens will be conducted. The new wardens will be given training in first aid, gases and bombs and gas masks will be used in the gas training. Veteran wardens will be requested to brush up by taking a "refresher" course.

The county director requested each zone chief to supply him with lists of prospective wardens for training by April 19.

Consensus of opinion among the wardens is that a better air raid warning system is needed to alert all persons residing within the city limits and the sooner such devices are installed the better federal regulations can be enforced.

LaVale Shows Slump

Millard Hughes, chief of the LaVale air raid wardens, advised those present that a general slump in all branches of the civilian defense set-up is experienced in the LaVale area, regardless of all efforts to encourage new help.

"There is a general feeling of overconfidence prevailing and until we do something to stimulate interest it will remain that way," Hughes said.

"We are experiencing much back talk and ridicule from some residents in a manner that requires double work and unjust criticism. Some of these have been checked and are on record as regular growers and don't feel they should cooperate until the bombs begin to fall."

Hughes said that he is hopeful that something can be done to furnish LaVale a good siren.

Myers said that the new federal violation forms are now in the hands of the printer and will be distributed soon.

Other wardens in attendance included Charles Herath, Zone No. 1; John J. Cavanaugh and Philip Stark, Zone No. 2; Earl L. Sills, Zone No. 3; Edward Johnson, Zone No. 4; Clarence Nicholson, Zone No. 5; William Lauderbach, Cresaptown and Millard Hughes, LaVale.

Dab of Black Paint On License Marker Costs Man $20 Fine

A Cumberland man's ruse Saturday night in driving his car with a dab of black paint smeared over the yellow marker on his license plate backfired yesterday in trial magistrates' court when he was fined $20 and costs by Magistrate Frank A. Perdue on two charges.

Thomas G. Brooks, 113 Allegheny street, was fined on charges of operating a car with expired tags and for displaying a fictitious marker. He received a suspended fine on a charge of not having his registration card in his possession. Officer W. E. Valentine made the arrest on a West Side street. Trooper Milton G. Hart preferred the charges.

WORKERS SHARE ARMY DAY TRIBUTE THIS YEAR, PATTERSON SAYS

Although the observance of Army day today is a tribute to American soldiers, workers on "the production line share that tribute" this year, Undersecretary of War Patterson said yesterday in a message sent to employees of the Allegheny Ordnance Plant.

Patterson said Army day this year will not be observed in the "usual way" with parades and celebrations because "Americans everywhere are too busy fighting and working to pause even for a few minutes."

"Our soldiers," Patterson said, "are on an offensive over Europe, in North Africa and in the Pacific. With your continued support, the army will keep that offensive rolling until victory rewards our efforts."

Eighty-Two Deaths Reported in March

Eighty-two deaths were recorded in Cumberland during the month of March, the greatest number reported for a single month here since ninety-four in February, 1940. One hundred and forty births were recorded for the month.
